

Russian cursive — 3 з

3 з

Watch for The Ze article names this pair directly and warns against reading one for the other. The resemblance is a matter of shape: 3 is the letter that carries /z/, while З is a separate letter of the alphabet rather than a variant of 3. The same article notes that 3 also runs close in shape to the Arabic numeral three, so where a line mixes words and figures, settle first whether the mark is a letter at all.
